Title: An act to eliminate money laundering within the government of Brazil.

BE IT HEREBY ENACTED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE UNITED NATIONS

Justification Clause: Over the past several years, more than half of all Brazilian politicians have been accused of the misuse of public tax revenue for personal purposes. Instead of this money being used for public benefits, such as roadwork and education, it has been taken by officials for personal uses including houses and boats. In addition, much of the money was used to secure spots in the legislation, by bribing higher up officials. For many years, citizens have been aware of this. They have just started to come forward on this matter, but it is nearly impossible to provide sufficient evidence needed in court for a guilty charge.

Section I: The U.N. will oversee all government spending to make sure all money is going to the benefit of the public.

Section II: Brazil will be required to send a spending ledger every 3 months. This would detail the exact tax income as compared to the money spent. The report will display specific destination and use of funds spent over the quarter.

Section III: In addition to the ledger, the UN will send a Certified International Accountant to manage tax revenue spending. This official will make sure that the given report contains legitimate transactions. They will be appointed, by the UN General Assembly, based on nationality (not anyone that may have prejudice towards them) and experience level.

Section IV: If the Brazilian government repeatedly fails to follow these regulations, they will be removed from the UN council, and they will have the rights of a country 'on hold' (applying for the UN, but without the right to vote or UN protection). To be re-granted full membership, Brazil must follow these measures for 1 year. If they continue to reject these regulations, they will be permanently expelled from the UN.

Section V: If this successfully eliminates money laundering in our country after one year, any other country in the UN suspected of money laundering within the government will also be subjected to this system.

Section VI: This proposal will go into effect January 1, 2014.
