1 A proposal to grant illegal immigrants refuge in a country legally in turn for exposing corrupt police.

2
3 Be it hereby enacted by the General Assembly of the United Nations

4
5 Justification Clause: In Ecuador and other alike countries, police officers extort illegal immigrants for money
6 in order to hide them from being exported. These police are supposed to report if illegal immigrants are in
7 the country without authorization. Instead of turning them in, the police ask for money or other things
8 instead. Ecuador and many other countries in South America, Asia, and Africa are in the top 50 out of 100
9 countries to be the most corrupt.

10
11 Section I: Participating countries will give proper documentation to the illegal immigrants which will allow
12 them to stay in the country legally for a year as they try to gain citizenship.

13
14 Section II: President Rafael Correa supports granting citizenship to illegal immigrants who give up corrupt
15 police. Due to its geographical location, Central America is a main area of drug trafficking and criminal
16 groups. With weak economies and state institutions, drug trafficking organizations have historically been
17 exempt from punishment because they buy the loyalty of underpaid officials along the way. These corrupt
18 police and officials allow these organizations to transport contraband easily.

20 Section III: When a case is reported, it will be investigated and must be supported with evidence. Depending 21 on the level of the case, it will either be taken to the local court or the National Court of Justice. If proven
22 guilty, the police officer(s) will be taken off of the force, will return extorted money, and further actions can
23 be taken depending on the case. Regarding the immigrants, they will have five years to be in the country
24 legally while they complete residency and begin/complete the process of citizenship. A probation officer will
25 check in with them twice a year. Once that time is up, if they have not complete or almost complete
26 citizenship, they will be deported.

27
28 Section IV: This proposal will go into effect a year after passing.
