1 Convention on Offering Incentives for the Elimination of Soil Based Pesticides

2
3 The General Assembly,

4
5 Alarmed by the substantial impact of soil pollution on many countries, specifically 95% of our food is produced
6 on the Earth's soil and at least 22 million hectares are polluted,

7
8 Immensely concerned that poisoned soil can lead to unsafe food and drink, which can lead to mass famine,

9
10 Deeply disturbed that current measures to reduce soil pollution are not sufficient to sustain a livable Earth,

- 11
12 1. Calls upon the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations to offer a monetary incentive of 13 anywhere between $1 million and $15 million (US) to the government of any and all countries who
14 decrease their soil pollution through elimination of chemical pesticides and fertilizers,
15
16 a. Suggests that countries who wish to participate in this incentive program determine what 17 action to take to decrease their soil pollution by looking to the extensive research of the United
18 Nations, particularly their Food and Agriculture Organization;
19
20 b. Encourages countries to seek assistance in developing a plan to decrease soil pollution through 21 the adaptive management of representatives from the Food and Agriculture Organization of the 22 United Nations;
24 2. Notes that the maximum cost of one country to participate in this program is merely 0.05% of the UN
25 Food and Agriculture Organization's yearly budget.

1 Establishment of the FAO Subsidiary Body for Sustainable and Profitable Agriculture
2
3 The General Assembly,
4
5 Realizing that much of the developing world is engaged in subsistence farming,
6
7 Conscious that global climate change causes additional challenges for these farmers and their ability to provide
8 sufficient amounts of resources to support their communities and countries,
9
10 Fully aware of the detrimental effects of desertification due, at least in part, to deforestation and over-farming,
11
12 Alarmed by the increasing amounts of contaminated water due to chemical runoff from farms and the harmful
13 effects of erosion due to deforestation within the countries stated in section two,
14
15 Noting with deep concern that previous efforts to provide yield increasing tools, such as tractors, have been 16 largely unsuccessful,
17
18 1. Designates an FAO subsidiary body to be created with representatives from twenty-two UN Member
19 States;
20
21 2. Proclaims the initial twenty-two members of the subcommittee to be as follows: Zambia, Timor Leste,
22 The Republic of the Congo, Djibouti, Yemen, Guinea, Haiti, Sudan, Ethiopia, Uganda, Burundi, Liberia,
23 Angola, Niger, Tanzania, Mozambique, Sierra Leone, Madagascar, CHAD, Central African Republic,
24 Indonesia, and Benin.
25
26 3. Designates that every five years twenty-two new applications will be accepted from either previous or 27 new countries to obtain the aid they require. These applications will be decided on by the FAO.
28 Further Proclaims that this subsidiary body provides training in sustainable and profitable farming
29 practices, access to environmentally appropriate seeds, irrigation systems, and incentives for private 30 industries to provide smallholder farms with access to tractors and other agricultural tools and 31 machinery;
32
33 4. Requests that the General Assembly approve an additional $50 million annually for ten years to the FAO

The General Assembly,

Knowing that Bolivia is a leading producer of the coca leaf producing 45% of the world's coca leaf and paste.

Seeing that the high demand for coca leaf has led to deforestation converting tens of thousands of land into coca leaf land. In addition, the high demand for coca leaf has caused an increase in illegal economic activities. Furthermore, there has been an increase in cocaine production correlating with the increase in coca leaf production.

Deeply concerned with the effects of a high production of the coca leaf on Bolivia as it contributes to illegal production of cocaine, is a large provider of cocaine to other nations, and contributes to economic and political issues within the nation. As well as concerned with the effects of monocropping, which destroys soil, decreases jobs for other wage workers, increases dependence on foreign imports, spreads pests and disease, creates pollution, and increases food costs.

Recognizing resolution 61/183, which called upon all member states to tackle the drug problem and acknowledge that the cultivation of narcotic drugs "had significantly increased and threatened the security and stability of that country and had negative regional and international implications". And resolution 62/8 of 2019, which again urges all member states to take action against the drug issue.

Acknowledging that the coca leaf production has caused many issues within the country and other Latin American Countries. We ask that the United Nations Office of Drug and Crimes (UNODC) take action and cut back the amount of coca leaf grown.

1. Reverse the former 2016 law that increased the land for coca leaf production from 12,000 to 22,000 hectares. Decreasing the amount of hectares by 1000 hectares per year for 10 years.
2. Dedicate the hectares formerly used for coca leaf to be revitalized for foodstuffs. Farmers who revitalize their land to grow foodstuff will receive compensation for initial costs of crop changing. This compensation will be determined by UNODC.
3. Fund a program to revitalize the use of coca leaf to promote it for more homeopathic purposes. Bolivia will be required to send an annual report of how many hectares are being used for coca leaves. If Bolivia sees positive results, we recommend the UN to take similar actions in other Latin American countries in relation to coca leaf production. This should go into effect in January 2022.

1 Convention on the Aid of Healthcare in Chad by its Allies and Other Supporting Countries.
2
3 The General Assembly,
4
5 Chad has the lowest life expectancy, and the poorest healthcare of any country in the world. Ongoing conflicts
6 such as civil war in Chad have made it extremely difficult for Chadians to have access to proper healthcare, or
7 even clean drinking water. Only 4% of Chadians living in rural areas have access to clean water, which is a
8 leading cause of health conditions, like diarrhea and cholera. Drought and food insecurity also play a huge role
9 in the overall poor health of Chadians. There is an extreme scarcity of doctors in Chad. There is one doctor for 10 every 38,000 inhabitants. There are 652,575 people of concern in Chad.
11
12 1. Chad’s allies such as France are in better condition and have proper healthcare and medical supplies.
13
14 2. Chad’s allies or surrounding countries willing to help would send in volunteer medical professionals with 15 medical supplies to work with patients who are the most in need in existing hospitals, offices, and 16 clinics.
17
18 3. Doctors being sent in would earn their same pay as if they were at their regular job, unless the budget
19 of that hospital/offices allows for extra pay. They will stay for a 180 days at a time, then return home

13
14 Alarmed that epidemics and pandemics such as this can cause a great deal of death, instability within society,

7
8 Bearing in mind the Trade Embargo has lasted for 58 years, thus making it the longest enduring trade embargo

The General Assembly,

Fully aware of the fact it's not needed, men in Ethiopia are mutilating women for "medical" reasons. Female Genital Mutilation (FGM) is the the partial or total removal of the female external genitalia or other injury to the female genital organs for non-medical reasons.

Keeping in mind that over 200 million women have been cut and over 34.7 million of them were cut for unknown "medical" reasons.

Determined to do something to combat that widespread issue law makers in Ethiopia passed a law in 2017 making it illegal to perform FGM for "medical reasons".

Confident that this law could help end the suffering for many,

1. Calls upon other nations in the United Nations to pass a similar law prohibiting the genital mutilation of women for any medical or non medical reasons.

A Resolution Relating to Providing Aide to East Germany

The General Assembly,

Alarmed by the fact that East Germany has not economically caught up to West Germany, twenty nine years after the fall of the Berlin Wall, has urged us to look towards the UN for financial aid to help with the rebuilding of the East-German economy.

Deeply concerned with the unemployment rate being twice that of West Germany, the lack of skilled workers, and that the top 30 companies (DAX 30) in Germany having zero headquarters in East Germany.

Concerned that the average person in East Germany makes eighty six percent of what the average person in West Germany makes after tax, can be directly tied to the lack of skilled jobs.

Fully aware that these conditions arise because of the lack of skilled jobs and weak infrastructure in East Germany compared to West Germany, is a major reason that East Germany is still so far behind West Germany even after twenty nine years of integration.

1. Calls upon the United Nations to recognize the importance of closing the economic gap between East and West Germany as it helps the terrible conditions in the East that have yet to be properly addressed. Requests that the United Nations provide $300,000,000 annually in order to rebuild infrastructure and attract skilled jobs to East Germany in order to close the economic gap between East and West Germany.
2. Affirms that the enactment of this resolution be put in place at the beginning 2021 Fiscal Year.

The General Assembly,

Alarmed that the rate of deforestation in South Africa is five to six times higher than previous years, and degradation spans 17% of the nation.

Recognizing that both deforestation and degradation cause an increase in carbon emissions, resulting in the rise of global temperature and pollution.

Recalling that the UN calls for a world where forests are “sustainably managed, contribute to sustainable development and provide economic, social, environmental and cultural benefits for present and future generations,” as shown in resolution 71/6

Conscious of the UN’s Strategic Plan for Forests 2030, which aims to increase forest area by 3% worldwide by 2030. Bearing in mind that the United Nations Forum on Forests declares that “an estimated 1.6 billion people (25% of the global population) depend on forests for subsistence, livelihood, employment and income generation.”

1. Calls upon the South African government to allocate land for the creation of national, protected reserves;
2. Encourages the use of cookstoves, in public, government-owned facilities, that require less charcoal;

3 The General Assembly,

4
5 Noting with deep concern the recent high number of explosions in the suburbs of Swedish cities, as well as a
6 60% increase in bombings in 2019,

7
8 Taking into consideration that Swedish authorities note the socio-economic backgrounds as well as the

10 immigrant families (the vast majority of which come from Finland, Iran, Iraq, Syria, and what used to be

The General Assembly,

Currently, immigrants attempting to enter the United States through the Mexican border are treated poorly due to a lack of funding and resources. Asylum seeking is a human right and people have the right to be treated humanely. Better living conditions will create better relationships with other countries and the residents of other countries. When people are treated with respect, they are more likely to want to enter the United States legally and establish their lives here.

1. The United States is requesting funding from the United Nations to provide basic resources and shelter temporarily to immigrants along the border.
2. (deficiencies of the camps) 220,000 illegal migrants were apprehended at the Mexico-United States border in 201
3. According to ICE’s FY 2018 budget, it currently costs the US about $134 per day to maintain one adult bed. A family bed costs about $319 and separated children living in tent cities costs $775 per night. Immigrants stay for an average of 44 days and about 51,379 people are held in detention centers each day. Private prisons are benefiting from this.
4. This is a humanitarian issue in which immigrants are not getting adequate treatment when trying to cross the Mexico-United States border.
5. These resources would need to be in place one year, or 365 days, after the passage of this resolution by the general assembly.
